MN-30009

Phase 1 Determination

Acquisition may be put into effect

8 May 2026

1. Determination and statement of reasons

Notified acquisition	Daikin Industries, Ltd (Daikin)’s, through its wholly owned subsidiary, Airmaster Corporation Pty Limited (Airmaster), proposed acquisition of Australian Air Conditioning & Mechanical Services Group (AAMS Group) via an asset acquisition from Damday Pty Ltd (the Acquisition). The assets of the AAMS Group business being acquired includes all plant and equipment, goodwill, stock, customer and supplier contracts and AAMS Group’s leased premises.
Determination	The Australian Competition and Consumer Commission has determined under section 51ABZE(1) of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (Cth) that the Acquisition may be put into effect.
Parties to the Acquisition	The acquirer, Daikin, operates in Australia through its wholly owned subsidiary, Daikin Australia Pty Ltd (Daikin Australia). Daikin Australia’s principal activities consist of the manufacture and distribution of air conditioning equipment. Daikin Australia wholly owns Airmaster Corporation Pty Limited (Airmaster). Airmaster is a building services company which supplies Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning (HVAC), refrigeration, Building Management Systems (BMS), fire maintenance, servicing and installations to Commercial and Industrial (C&I) customers. Airmaster has a presence in each state and territory except the Northern Territory. The target, AAMS Group, is a mechanical services contractor operating in construction, HVAC and mechanical services industries. It designs, fabricates, supplies and installs HVAC systems and provides ongoing servicing and maintenance services to C&I customers. AAMS Group operates in Darwin.
Overlap between the parties	Daikin and AAMS Group both provide HVAC and related services; however, Daikin and AAMS Group’s operations have minimal geographic overlap.
Reasons for determination	When making a determination in Phase 1, the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) undertakes a competition assessment and considers whether it is appropriate for an acquisition to be approved or subject to further assessment in Phase 2 in accordance with section 51ABZJ of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (Cth) (the Act). In doing so, the ACCC must have regard to the object of the Act and all relevant matters, including the interests of consumers. For more information about the ACCC’s approach to considering notified acquisitions, see the ACCC’s merger assessment guidelines and interim merger process guidelines. In conducting its competition assessment, the ACCC has considered the information and documents that were submitted with the notification form, information from third parties and publicly available information. The ACCC has determined that the Acquisition may be put into effect as it considers that the Acquisition is unlikely to have the effect of substantially lessening competition in any market. In reaching its decision, and based on the material before it, the ACCC makes the following findings. • There is minimal geographic overlap between Daikin and AAMS Group in the provision of HVAC and related services. • Following the Acquisition, Daikin will continue to be constrained by rival national and Northern Territory based HVAC and related services providers, including VAE Group, Total Ventilation Hygiene Services, Airducter and Service Air.

Applications for review	A notifying party, or other person who has been allowed to do so by the Australian Competition Tribunal, may apply for review if they are dissatisfied with the determination. Pursuant to section 100C of the Act, applications for review of the determination are to be made to the Australian Competition Tribunal before the end of 14 calendar days after this statement of reasons was included on the ACCC's Acquisitions Register. To confirm whether there has been any application for review, please contact the Australian Competition Tribunal.
