

Notification Waiver Determination

Regis – Home Care Business of Royal Freemasons

Acquisition	Regis Aged Care Pty Ltd (Regis) applied for a notification waiver in respect of its proposed acquisition of the Royal Freemasons Victorian Home Care business of Royal Freemasons Ltd (Royal Freemasons), as described in the transaction documents provided as part of the application (the Acquisition).
Determination	The Australian Competition and Consumer Commission has determined under section 51ABV(1)(a) of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (Cth) that the Acquisition is not required to be notified.
Date of determination	27 August 2026

Parties to the Acquisition	The acquirer, Regis, is an ASX-listed Australian aged care provider operating residential aged care homes, home care services, and retirement living services across Australia. Its home care operations provide government-funded and privately funded in-home care and support services to older Australians, including personal care, domestic assistance, nursing and allied health support, social support, and care management services. The vendor, Royal Freemasons, is a not-for-profit aged care and retirement living provider that operates primarily in Victoria. Through the Royal Freemasons Home Care business, it supplies home care services to older Australians, including personal care, domestic assistance, nursing support, respite services, social support, and care management services. Both parties supply in-home aged care and support services in Victoria.
Explanation for determination	In making this notification waiver determination, the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (the ACCC) has considered the information provided with the notification waiver application, and had regard to the factors in section 51ABV(2)(b) of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (Cth) (the Act). Based on the information currently before it, the ACCC considers that the Acquisition is unlikely to give rise to any material lessening of competition given: a. the parties' combined share of supply of in-home aged care and support services in Victoria (primarily in Greater Melbourne) is low and the increment arising from the Acquisition would be small b. there are alternative providers of in-home aged care and support services in Greater Melbourne and in Victoria more broadly.

	In these circumstances, the ACCC does not consider it necessary to reach a concluded view on the likelihood of the notification thresholds being met. Given that material competition concerns are unlikely to arise, the ACCC has determined that the Acquisition is not required to be notified. The ACCC considers that the determination is consistent with the object of the Act and the interests of consumers in promoting competition. For more information about the ACCC's approach to considering notification waiver applications and to assessing competition effects more generally, see the ACCC's guidance on notification waivers and merger assessment guidelines.
