

Service Stream – RiE Group

MN-50022

Phase 1 Determination

Acquisition may be put into effect

3 July 2026

1. Determination and statement of reasons

Notified acquisition	Service Stream Limited (Service Stream), via a wholly owned subsidiary, proposes to acquire all of the issued share capital in RiE Group Pty Ltd (RiE).
Determination	The Australian Competition and Consumer Commission has determined under section 51ABZE(1) of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (Cth) that the Acquisition may be put into effect.
Parties to the Acquisition	The acquirer, Service Stream, provides asset lifecycle services through various subsidiaries, specialising in the design, construction, operation, and maintenance of essential infrastructure networks across all States and Territories in Australia. Service Stream's business is divided into three operating divisions, which are Telecommunications, Transport and Utilities. Service Stream's Utilities division, which is relevant to the proposed acquisition, provides services to the water, power and industrial sectors, including: • design, civil, structural, electrical, mechanical, control engineering and metering services to the water industry • operations, maintenance, design and installation services in relation to gas assets • distribution and metering services for electricity networks including network maintenance, asset inspection and installation services. The target, RiE, is a privately-owned industrial electrical and instrumentation provider based in Queensland's Western Downs region. RiE offers specialised electrical and instrumentation infrastructure services, equipment rental and labour hire solutions targeted to industrial clients who rely on electrical infrastructure to operate their plant or facilities. RiE's clients operate in fields such as power generation, renewable energy, oil and gas, and utilities.
Overlap and relationship between the parties	The parties overlap in the supply of electrical and instrumentation (E&I) services. However, Service Stream and RiE's operations have minimal overlap as Service Stream provides limited E&I services to only one customer in Queensland. RiE provides E&I services to multiple customers in the industrial sector in Queensland and New South Wales.
Reasons for determination	When making a determination in Phase 1, the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) undertakes a competition assessment and considers whether it is appropriate for an acquisition to be approved or subject to further assessment in Phase 2 in accordance with section 51ABZJ of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (Cth) (the Act). In doing so, the ACCC must have regard to the object of the Act and all relevant matters, including the interests of consumers. For more information about the ACCC's approach to considering notified acquisitions, see the ACCC's merger assessment guidelines and interim merger process guidelines. In conducting its competition assessment, the ACCC has considered the information and documents that were submitted with the notification form and information from third parties. The ACCC has determined that the Acquisition may be put into effect as it considers that the Acquisition is unlikely to have the effect of substantially lessening competition in any market. In reaching its decision, and based on the material before it, the ACCC makes the following findings. • Service Stream and RiE do not compete closely in the supply of E&I services. • the market share aggregation resulting from the Acquisition in the supply of E&I services is estimated to be minimal. • Service Stream would likely continue to be constrained by multiple alternative suppliers of E&I services.

Applications for review	A notifying party, or other person who has been allowed to do so by the Australian Competition Tribunal, may apply for review if they are dissatisfied with the determination. Pursuant to section 100C of the Act, applications for review of the determination are to be made to the Australian Competition Tribunal before the end of 14 calendar days after this statement of reasons was included on the ACCC's Acquisitions Register. To confirm whether there has been any application for review, please contact the Australian Competition Tribunal.
