

Ambrose Construct Group – Major Loss Builders

MN-10021

Phase 1 Determination

Acquisition may be put into effect

12 August 2026

1. Determination and statement of reasons

Notified acquisition	Insurance Building Australia Operations Pty Ltd, the operating entity of Ambrose Construct Group, proposes to acquire all of the issued shares in Major LB Pty Ltd, which is the operating entity of Major Loss Builders (the Acquisition).
Determination	The Australian Competition and Consumer Commission has determined under section 51ABZE(1) of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (Cth) that the Acquisition may be put into effect.
Parties to the Acquisition	The Acquirer, Insurance Building Australia Operations Pty Ltd, is the operating entity for Ambrose Construct Group (ACG). ACG is a national insurance repair and restoration company with a focus on services provided under national insurance claims. It services contracts with insurers and with insurance loss adjusters, which are hired by insurers to investigate damage and loss on insurance claims. ACG is majority owned by funds managed or advised by CPE Capital, which is an Australian private capital manager. The Target, Major LB Pty Ltd, is the operating entity of Major Loss Builders (MLB). MLB is an insurance building specialist which supplies complex, large loss commercial and residential insurance building repairs in Western Australia, South Australia and the Northern Territory.
Overlap and relationship between the Parties	ACG and MLB together (the Parties) overlap in the supply of insurance repair and restoration services for insured property pursuant to insurance claims, including business-as-usual repairs as well as emergency 'mark-safe' services, and associated services.
Reasons for determination	When making a determination in Phase 1, the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) undertakes a competition assessment and considers whether it is appropriate for an acquisition to be approved or subject to further assessment in Phase 2 in accordance with section 51ABZJ of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (Cth) (the Act). In doing so, the ACCC must have regard to the object of the Act and all relevant matters, including the interests of consumers. For more information about the ACCC's approach to considering notified acquisitions, see the ACCC's merger assessment guidelines and interim merger process guidelines. In conducting its competition assessment, the ACCC has considered the information and documents that were submitted with the notification form, information submitted by third parties and information from prior ACCC informal merger assessments. A third party raised concerns that the Acquisition would increase consolidation in the relevant market and make it difficult for independent suppliers with less scale to compete. The ACCC has determined that the Acquisition may be put into effect as it considers that the Acquisition is unlikely to have the effect of substantially lessening competition in any market. In reaching its decision, and based on the material before it, the ACCC makes the following findings. the Parties' national and state-based market share aggregations are estimated to be minimal. • the Parties would likely continue to be constrained by a large number of alternative suppliers of insurance restoration and repair services nationally and alternatively in State-based based markets in Western Australia, South Australia and the Northern Territory. • barriers to entry and expansion appear low to moderate. New entrants are required to obtain panel appointments from insurance customers, which are often influenced by existing relationships and demonstrated experience, alongside price and service quality levels. Independent suppliers with less scale may face challenges competing to service insurance customers, however the Acquisition would not meaningfully raise these barriers.

Applications for review	A notifying party, or other person who has been allowed to do so by the Australian Competition Tribunal, may apply for review if they are dissatisfied with the determination. Pursuant to section 100C of the Act, applications for review of the determination are to be made to the Australian Competition Tribunal before the end of 14 calendar days after this statement of reasons was included on the ACCC's Acquisitions Register. To confirm whether there has been any application for review, please contact the Australian Competition Tribunal.
