Phase 1 Determination

Acquisition may be put into effect

9 June 2026

1. Determination and statement of reasons

Notified acquisition	AtkinsRéalis Group Inc. through its wholly owned subsidiary AtkinsRéalis Australia Holdings Pty Ltd (AtkinsRéalis) proposes to acquire 100% of the shares in WGA Group Holdings Pty Ltd (WGA) (the Acquisition).
Determination	The Australian Competition and Consumer Commission has determined under section 51ABZE(1) of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (Cth) that the Acquisition may be put into effect.
Parties to the Acquisition	The acquirer, AtkinsRéalis, is part of a publicly traded, Canadian engineering and construction company, AtkinsRealis Group Inc. In Australia, AtkinsRéalis operates as a professional engineering and technical consultancy firm that provides engineering, design, advisory and delivery services to public and private customers across the transport, buildings and places, defence, energy and water sectors. The target, WGA, is a multi-disciplinary engineering and project management consultancy firm, which operates across Australia and New Zealand. It provides engineering, technical, advisory, delivery and project management services as stand-alone commissions or multi-disciplinary packages to both public and private clients across the following sectors: buildings urban development, defence and space, energy, ports and marine, resources, sports and recreation, transport and water.
Overlap and relationship between the parties	The parties overlap in the supply of engineering consultancy services in Australia. The Parties have on limited occasions entered into vertical relationships (with WGA contracting AtkinsRéalis as a sub-consultant or vice versa).
Reasons for determination	When making a determination in Phase 1, the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) undertakes a competition assessment and considers whether it is appropriate for an acquisition to be approved or subject to further assessment in Phase 2 in accordance with section 51ABZJ of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (Cth) (the Act). In doing so, the ACCC must have regard to the object of the Act and all relevant matters, including the interests of consumers. For more information about the ACCC's approach to considering notified acquisitions, see the ACCC's merger assessment guidelines and interim merger process guidelines. In conducting its competition assessment, the ACCC has considered the information and documents that were submitted with the notification form, information from third parties, and publicly available information. The ACCC has determined that the Acquisition may be put into effect as it considers that the Acquisition is unlikely to have the effect of substantially lessening competition in any market. In reaching its decision, and based on the material before it, the ACCC makes the following findings.

	• the Parties are not likely to be close competitors as they do not commonly tender for the same projects: they operate at materially different scales and have different geographic presences, customer bases and sectoral focuses. • The combined entity is expected to face competition from alternative suppliers. The engineering consultancy services industry is highly fragmented, with no single supplier holding a material share of supply. • the combined entity is unlikely to have the ability to foreclose competitors, either upstream or downstream, due the availability of alternative suppliers.
Applications for review	A notifying party, or other person who has been allowed to do so by the Australian Competition Tribunal, may apply for review if they are dissatisfied with the determination. Pursuant to section 100C of the Act, applications for review of the determination are to be made to the Australian Competition Tribunal before the end of 14 calendar days after this statement of reasons was included on the ACCC's Acquisitions Register. To confirm whether there has been any application for review, please contact the Australian Competition Tribunal.
