FlightSafety International - Commercial Training Solutions

Phase 1 Determination

Acquisition may be put into effect

8 November 2026

1. Determination and statement of reasons

Notified acquisition	FlightSafety International Inc (FSI) proposes to acquire all of the shares in Horizon CTS Corp (CTS) (operating as Commercial Training Solutions) from Acron Technologies, LLC (Acron) (the Acquisition).
Determination	The Australian Competition and Consumer Commission has determined under section 51ABZE(1) of the C*ompetition and Consumer Act 2010* (Cth) that the Acquisition may be put into effect.
Parties to the Acquisition	The acquirer, FSI, is headquartered in the US and is a wholly owned operating company of Berkshire Hathaway. FSI is a global supplier of aviation training, simulation products and related services. FSI provides advanced training and solutions for pilots, maintenance technicians, cabin attendants, and other aviation professionals. Additionally, FSI designs, engineers, manufactures, and supports flight simulation training devices, including full flight simulators and lower-level flight training devices (also referred to as fixed-base flight simulators) at multiple manufacturing facilities in the United States with a few training facilities in Europe and the Asia-Pacific region. The target, CTS, manufactures a range of flight simulation training devices, including full flight simulators, lower-level flight training devices, flat panel trainers, driver training solutions, and supplies relevant training courseware and equipment upgrades, largely serving commercial airlines. CTS also provides flight training, and academy programs to commercial airlines and original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) (including to Australian airlines) through its facilities in the US, UK, and Thailand. CTS primarily provides devices and training for larger commercial aircraft, providing only limited products and services for smaller aircraft of less than 100 seats.
Overlap between the Parties	The parties overlap in the supply of: ▪ flight simulation training devices in Australia, and ▪ aviation training services to Australian customers (via overseas training facilities).
Reasons for determination	When making a determination in Phase 1, the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) undertakes a competition assessment and considers whether it is appropriate for an acquisition to be approved or subject to further assessment in Phase 2 in accordance with section 51ABZJ of the C*ompetition and Consumer Act 2010* (Cth) (the Act). In doing so, the ACCC must have regard to the object of the Act and all relevant matters, including the interests of consumers. For more information about the ACCC's approach to considering notified acquisitions, see the ACCC's merger assessment guidelines and interim merger process guidelines. In conducting its competition assessment, the ACCC has considered the information and documents that were submitted with the notification form and information from third partes. The ACCC has determined that the Acquisition may be put into effect as it considers that the Acquisition would be unlikely to have the effect of substantially lessening competition in any market. In reaching its decision, and based on the material before it, the ACCC makes the following findings: ▪ FSI and CTS are not close competitors in the supply of flight simulation training devices or aviation training services as they provide products and services for different classes of aircraft, with minimal direct overlap. ▪ The merged firm would continue to face competition from multiple alternative suppliers of flight simulation training devices and aviation training services.

Applications for review	A notifying party, or other person who has been allowed to do so by the Australian Competition Tribunal, may apply for review if they are dissatisfied with the determination. Pursuant to section 100C of the Act, applications for review of the determination are to be made to the Australian Competition Tribunal before the end of 14 calendar days after this statement of reasons was included on the ACCC's Acquisitions Register. To confirm whether there has been any application for review, please contact the Australian Competition Tribunal.
